Mrs. Kangelaris
My dear Mrs K,
I sincerely hope
I can get through this without making your yearbook too soggy. But if I don't, I know you'll understand.
Yes... yes... yes! That seems to be a relatively good theme for my senior year
Almanack... at least if I keep an optimistic attitude. Over the years, I have often wondered if I would really ever make it. There have been some wonderful great times - the musicals, the concerts, the many clubs and activities (especially with the International Club. I hope you'll never forget the time we went to B.G. Katigoris for the Homecoming car; or the other side of the R.R. tracks for the big Ben barrels; or the International Mas and Weekends;
the Halpides and visits to Greenfield Village. And how about this crazy old the 2-4-7-11-13-14-17-20-21-24 glasses at Christmas time; all of the desk mats and cards to cheer each other up; the day we moved out Mr. Rowan; also my little kids (Hello, Uncle Don!...), the Honors Convocation showcases (gag!); and INC car washes; and empty brown moulding coffee cups sitting around making "fall out!"; and not knowing who (or sometimes what) you'll be today... or tomorrow; writing me passes out of every class at one time or another; and Mrs. B always yelling because we your expert spelling making everyone sick; and Mr. Martin Day; and is man-i-a-cal; and Miss P and Mrs. B always yelling because we made too much noise; and your old blue car; and "The new "rusty" one; and our reading crusade; and "The jifer"; and collecting books from lockers at the end of the year; and "It's Halloween... no pumpkin, no candy... what are we gonna do?... no mask, no costume... what are we going to do?; and all the fine
and happy

ina, what do I say to a fellow editor
or a crime? I guess I'll have to settle for something plain like bye to tell you next year —

Thanks for all the help and good advice. Many times I avoided a bad, or at least embarrassing, mistake because you were there. Thanks.
D. Culbert

Dear Blessings, from

Beseiged with problems, Board battles bravely

1969-70 will go down as one of the rough years at the Board Office. Members of the Board and central office administration joined the state-wide program of total educational reform, and faced tough local problems too.

Failure of a millage election in the spring of 1969 resulted in half-day sessions for fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth grade students throughout the district, and led to a Supreme Court decision upholding the "legality" of half-days because "a school day" had never been adequately defined. The two lower grades returned to full days in November, but the other two remained on half-days for the entire school year.

Other warm discussions involved sex education, political clubs in schools, and administrative reorganization.

Newest member of the administrative team. Dean Waldfogel spent long hours in 333, the Attendance Office, where he was chatting with Mr. Visser

With the famous saying for background, Counseling Chairman John Ort offered a quip as he left Mr. Wright and Mr. Amerman facing a problem. Bearded Mr. Balogh heard out Mr. Zang

Administration values vision, common sense

Administratively, the same "Yes" persists, in spite of compounded complex problems rarely understood by the most vocal critics and complainers. They would never believe what hundreds of others know — that our administration also is vitally concerned with the rights, the potential, the value of individuals, all individuals Principal David D. Amerman worked with a system-wide committee to arrange DRUG, a phone number young people wishing help with drug problems could call for that help. His assistants and Faculty Council (department chairmen) helped him solve Franklin problems.

Paper overflow dissolves in offices

Though report cards, admit slips, and class schedules are often taken for granted, few students realize the awesome amount of paperwork that goes behind them. Secretaries and aides are plagued daily with an avalanche of passes, phone calls, lost books, files, records, sickness

In addition to these regular activities, Franklin's offices act as dispenseries for poster-board, paint, band-aids, typing, mimeographing, and zerox copies of materials.

Staff assistant Jan Hanzek (right) worked on a key-punch machine in the data processing office. Mrs. Calandra (above), Mr. Amerman's secretary, assisted students who came to the Main Office

IMC aids students in education pursuits

Playing a large role in Franklin's modular system, Instructional Materials Centers contribute to studies. During this year Franklinites set a record for IMC usage. The round library, a quiet study area, was overcrowded during several peak modules. Those not interested in books found tapes, films, and magazines in the Non-Book room.

Curricular study centers for Social Studies, English, and Math (located at McKinley) also had their share of patronage. Each departmental section contained specialized material. Group study was possible by using conference rooms, recessed from the main library. Increased usage of IMC centers is a source of pride to the staff.

Meeting students face-to-face, the heart of any counseling program, became more of a reality this year than it has been for some time, as counselors established regular seminar sessions with small groups of their Sophomore students. Once again, all counselors were associated with students from all three grades.

Otherwise, their normal duties continued and sometimes nearly swamped every member of the guidance department. The year began, of course, with the usual flood of schedule changes (repeated at the beginning of second semester). Then, sandwiched in with individual conferences with each counselor (get-acquainted, problem-solving, or both), came visits to alumni who are currently freshmen at various Michigan college campuses.

College Night, late in October, was planned by Franklin counselors, but the evening was open to students (with their parents) from all four Livonia high schools

Current changes spur language enthusiasm

Many changes have been made this year in most phases of the Foreign Language Department. French switched to modular scheduling in place of former traditional classes, and Spanish and Latin continued to gain interest. The entire department moved to McKinley German had perhaps the most drastic curriculum change in the department. German continuous progress track program was instituted under Frederick E. Hebel's direction. Instead of the potential of attaining one credit in one year as before, a student may achieve two years of credit, or one half year of credit, for only one year of class time. Individualization of instruction allows the student to progress at his own pace, using programmed textbooks, and the language lab. Self evaluation is an important aspect; quality, rather than quantity, learning is emphasized. The program has been approved by the Board of Education, and is currently up for approval by Superintendent of Schools, Rolland H. Upton.

Language is an integral part of the human personality, and Madame Battah was able to do so effectively reproduce the atmosphere of the country that one could almost imagine the Gallic empire through which she psychologically traveled Taming a ferocious bull was one of the more harrowing of the activities Spanish IV student Janice Brown faced in the school year. In reality, it was all part of the entertainment provided at the international dinner. Welcomed at the dinner were all language students, as well as administrators' families.

English turns eyes to continuous progress

Curriculum revision, with special emphasis on continuous progress, was slogan and every spare-moment activity for the English department this year, as they struggled against deadlines to establish a pilot program for the school year of 1970-71. Complete curriculum revision continues, its features to be determined by evaluation of the continuous progress pilot program.

Humanities became a full-fledged member of the department, as English credit was okayed for it. In its previous two years it has been an orphan, credit-wise.

Mrs. Gomon came to replace Mr. Manuel (now at Churchill) as reading consultant. Miss Masuch was on sabbatical, studying at the University of Michigan and touring Australia and other "down-under" areas. Four new faces — Miss Johnroe, Mr. Lickfeldt, Miss Mayer and Miss Prevost — joined department headquarters.

Sculpture appreciation was part of the goal for Humanities students Bill Young and Gilda Polselli (above right) in the ERC

Rhetoric problems dissolved fast for Linda Couillard when Miss Przselawski could sit down and talk with her about them (right).

Social Studies scans past, present, future

Improvement is the key word in Social Studies this year. Last year's new classes, Minority Group Relations and Community Service, have been expanded and improved to serve more students, while traditional classes U.S. History, American Government, Economics, Current Geography, Psychology and Sociology continue.

Social Studies faculty have also added some more touches of their own "improvements" with the addition of new teachers, Mr. Thomas Niemi and Mrs. Margarete Weaver, to an already extremely diversified staff.

In the Social Studies Resource Center, Kathy Donovan, Mary Ann Feister, Susan Oleson, and Dan Madar mixed studies, gossip

Roger Lang, Ray Rondy, Mary Fron, Michelle Anderson and Bill Ward exhibited varied, yet interested reactions in U.S. History.

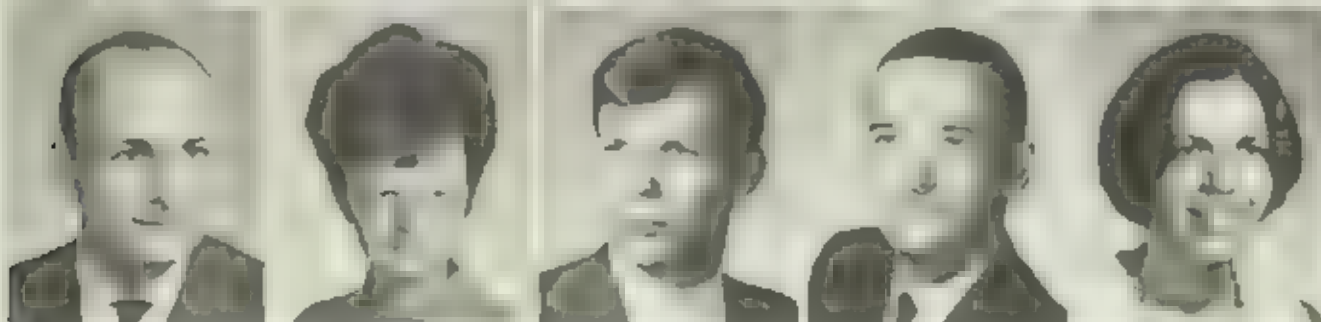

Mr. Kokenakes and Dave Falkner gave Kathy Graham courteous attention as she explained "her" nation in International Relations. Was it bewilderment, or enlightenment, that prompted Chuck Hughes to pay such rapt attention to Mr. Niemi?

Science puts teeth in individualized work

This year, the Science Department took several bold steps toward new learning trends in order to keep up with the fast-pace intelligence of students. Mr. Rotrock, for example, created his QQ program for bright Physics students. They completed their labs on their own time, progressing at their own rate. Mr. Dane's policy was to have his Chemistry students repeat their assignments until they were without error and the concepts were understood.

A new approach in Electronics originated this year. Continuous progress allowed students to select areas of work. It was possible to receive more than one credit per year, depending upon the number of assignments completed. Biology and Earth Science, however, both continued using the same approach as in previous years, consisting of lecture, small group, and open lab modules.

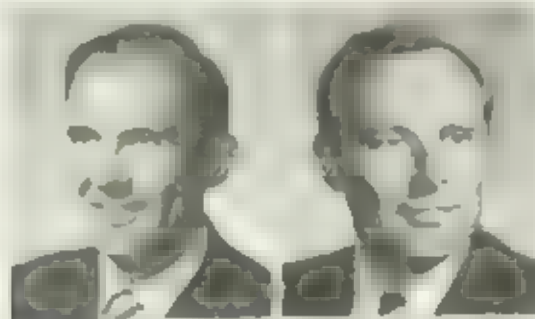

Taking advantage of an Earth Science lab session, Mr. Warren further developed understanding of the tilt of the Earth's axis.

As the first step of a Chemistry experiment, Janet Goodykoontz adjusted the centigram balance to weigh her paper.

Questing for new math skills, Franklin mathematicians braved the elements in their trek to the newly formed math center in nearby McKinley. There algebra, geometry, trigonometry, calculus and refresher math awaited student solutions. A new addition, pre-technical math, taught by Mr. Robert Selke, served to enlarge the already bulging curriculum of the mathematics department

Full of apprehension, Cheryl Szatwicz fed the computer data needed to solve her equation. Business Education does its normal thing

Business as usual was the rule in Business Education this year, as no new classes were added to the curriculum. But steadily increasing total school enrollment made itself felt, particularly in open labs for typing.

Snug little 321 became the new department office, old headquarters being used by students practicing on various business machines, and by aide, Mrs. Evelyn Dutton, who did typing and dittoing for teachers.

Data processing continued to be a popular choice of business majors and other students. Dictation equipment got heavy use from future secretaries. Familiar classes in typing (at several levels of competency), bookkeeping, business law, retailing rounded out the program.

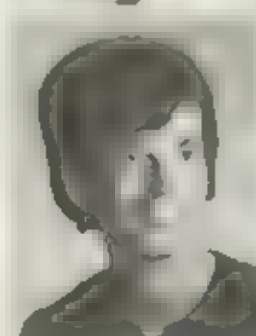

Directions for use of transcription equipment were most explicit when given by Miss Bosh.

Industrial Ed. welds, sands, tunes up

Industrial Education was highlighted this year by the many diversified subjects taught. From Wood Shop to Drafting, Metals to Auto Tech., all of them teaching skills that will prove helpful in the coming years.

With the girls again invading the drafting classes, the boys seemed to learn more about shapes and measures. In Auto Tech. the main emphasis was on the cars, tearing them apart and putting them back together again. Woods and Metals had fun creating their different projects.

Boys, girls share Home Econ. program

In the "tossed salad" that is Family Life Education these days, both boys and girls find plenty to satisfy their individual tastes. Enrollment in Mr. Zizzo's Commercial Foods class more than doubled this year, and their restaurant, Poor Richard's, proved their worth Fashion-conscious femmes found time to keep the sewing machines humming. Elsewhere there was girls' cookery in 416, and home furnishing studies throughout the suite. Both big and little students enjoyed and learned at Franklin's third annual Playschool, a branch of the Family Living course with pre-school age children of the Franklin staff as eligible and eager members.

Poor Richard's a restaurant for faculty members, opened in November at McKinley. Mr. Zizzo, teacher of Commercial Foods, advised Lynn Clark, Joe Witkowski. Randy DePeel handled dishes.

Art brings color, line to hall viewing areas

Self-expression is the motivation that encourages many imaginative students to explore the field of Art. After grasping the fundamentals, interested young artists select an aspect they wish to investigate in greater depth. They can further the study of drawing and continue to experiment with various media of painting. Other choices include Crafts, Commercial Art, Sculpture, Advanced Art Techniques, and the consecutive stages of Graphics.

This year art students left tracks throughout the school. Their displayed works revealed talented creativity. Sculptures in addition to wood cuts drew much attention. Most welcomed was the transformation of uniform hallways into collages of color through exhibits of paintings, wood cuts, and other graphic print.

Vocal, instrumental groups gather honors

Every year the music department makes its own act almost impossible to follow, as orchestra, bands, and vocal groups continue to stash away the number one ratings for performances in local area and state competitions.

Mr. Farkas came from Emerson part of the day this year to direct the orchestra, freeing Mr. Ernst to work full-time with symphonic and varsity bands, and with music theory. They cooperated on a Mid-Winter Concert and shared a Fall Pops Concert with the vocal groups, which gave special performances both at Christmas-time and in the Spring, directed by Mr. Ballard and Mrs. Duprey.

Acceleration in Athletics sparks sports spirit

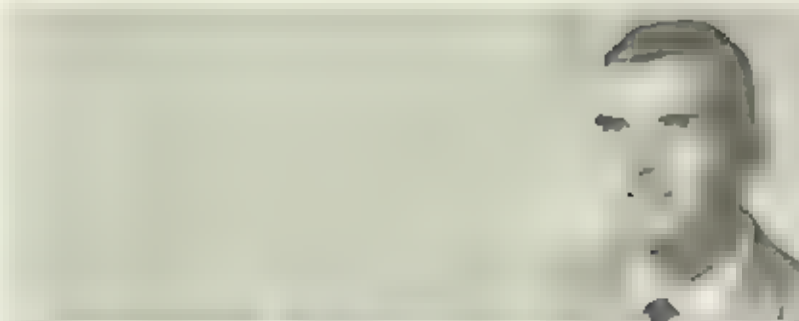

Franklin's physical education department is no longer limited to the Sophomores. For the first time, Juniors and Seniors interested in sports are offered an advanced gym class.

The beginning of each marking period is set aside for the girls to determine their unit of sport. Among those that can be chosen are lifesaving, field hockey, volleyball, and gymnastics.

The boys likewise determine their own units and members of the class who are also members of the athletic teams use their time to view films and perfect their individual skills.

A fast paced game of powderpuff football gave Sophomore Krista Bostick the opportunity to exhibit her scoring abilities. Engaged in a fierce battle were soccer enthusiasts Dale Marzewski, Paul Eagle, Doug Fetterman, and Gary Jennings, while Ken Minelly and Kevin Scane awaited their play.

Custodians, kitchen crew appeal to taste, sight

Sense appeal is the job of Franklin's behind-the-scenes staffs, both the cooks in the kitchen and the custodians elsewhere all around the building. They have to make luncheons taste good and keep the building looking its best at all times.

On that score, the cooks have an easier task than the custodians; 2300 people can and do make quite a mess for custodians to try to keep up with. An occasion break-in (three this year) only adds both to their labor and to their disgust, a feeling shared by almost all Franklinites, the concerned citizenry.

Banquets, dances, events in the gym and lecture theater, open houses, night-school classes make other demands on their skills. In spite of reduced numbers, both groups performed patiently.

Evening saw Queen Joanne Dommer and her court preside over the Homecoming Ball, for which the gym was imaginatively decorated as a "Kaleidoscope"

"Rockets' Requiem," the desire felt by all Patriots, was clearly expressed by the Junior Class's parade-winning float. Team-work provided a winning score, transforming this wish into reality

Queen Joanne Dommer (below) felt dazzled and looked as dazzling as the exaggerated crown symbolizing her royalty. Introduced to the half-time crowd, the court (below left) exhibited its beauty and pride with Carla Decina, Elaine Nagano, Linda DiPiazza, Queen Joanne Dommer, Peggy Hoyna, Diane DeSanto, and Maureen Jordan

As Patriots on the field buried their opposition, Patriots in the stands cheered vigorously. The evening presented a "Kaleidoscope" of colorful decorations and music as a setting for reunited student and alumni friends to share the pleasures of the annual Homecoming Dance.

Alumni stage walk-in, demonstrate loyalty

Franklin's victory over John Glenn made for a sweet return, as alumni flocked home during Homecoming weekend. Many alumni stayed on to enjoy the activities of the evening at the Homecoming dance.

Alumni Day gave teachers and students an opportunity to renew old acquaintances with Alumni. Alumni took time off from work, school, and the Armed Forces. Plans for the future were revealed and mixed with remembrances of the good times spent with friends.

Russel O'Sullivan, Linda Eagle, Robert Campbell, and Nina Baggott (left) shared stories of college life. Senior girls (middle left) brought their mothers to the senior tea, an activity sponsored by the junior class. Mr. David Amerman (top) congratulated valedictorian Wendy Van Rhee while salutorian Pat Lissandrello and Ann Peterson smiled their approval of the honor.

Players perform plays: 'Three on three-quarter'

Using a relatively unusual kind of staging, Franklin Players presented their annual student-directed one-act plays — "3 on ¾". This staging — "Three-quarter Round" — surrounding the stage on three sides with the audience, was the first attempt at such a style of the theatre by any group in the area

First on the program was the modern classic, "Sorry, Wrong Number", directed by Dan Vighiarolo and starring Cher Wagner as the nervous semi-invalid, Mrs. Stevenson. To relieve the tension generated by such a dramatic play, Cal Draughn presented light-hearted, "Red Carnations" with Bill Kumbier, Carol Schulz, and Steve Ormond portraying, respectively, Mr. Smith, Miss Smith, and Mr. Smith. Last, in accordance with the old stage adage, "Leave 'em Laughing", was the tale of "The Ugly Duckling". Directed by Players' president Bob Hellstein, this comedy featured Steve Roewer and Linda Clark as the frustrated king and queen, Laura Droz as their not-so-ugly daughter, Camilla, and Bob McNeilly as her intended husband, Prince Simon

In "The Ugly Duckling", a disgusted Steve Roewer (top) didn't quite share the enthusiasm of his royal wife, Linda Clark, in regards to finding a husband for their plain daughter. Confused and curious, Steve Ormond (right) questioned an aloof Carol Schulz, in "Red Carnations", to determine if she was the girl who was to be his date

"Helping in little ways" brought new ideas to the natives of Sarkhan. As Jeepo (Steve Ormond) served cokes (opposite page), Mai Mau (Elaine Nagano) adopted usage of a western broom. Mother-in-law (Sue Rosinski) presented an old broom to Emma (Debi Ottman), while Jeepo and Marie (Mary Ann Saplis) watched (left). Jeepo and Homer (Bob Hellstein) worked out plans for irrigation of native rice paddies (center left)

Aid, diplomacy concern "The Ugly American"

A look at the world of foreign affairs occupied cast and crew of the Senior class sponsored play. "The Ugly American", directed by Mrs. Perryman, was presented December 12 and 13

Based on a novel of the same name, the play is set in Sarkhan, a Southeast Asian country. Homer Atkins (Bob Hellstein), dispatched as an engineer, attempts to help the Sarkhanese modernize their country. However, Homer is thwarted by red tape, by Ambassador Sears (Mike Mehney) and unsympathetic embassy personnel. In order to secure a judicial position, Sears glosses over native discontent at the arrival of a U.S. senator. Sears' whitewash job is complicated by the communist plot. Rice, intended for Sarkhan as a gift from the United States, is passed out with communist propaganda printed on the bags. Though Sears gains his position, and defeats Homer, the natives present the Atkins with a token of their friendship and admiration

Opposing diplomatic philosophies clashed (left) when Homer, Sears (Mike Mehney), and Emma met. Cast (below): Front Row: Roxanna Maddox, Cal Draughn, John Reeber, Debi Ottman, Bob Hellstein, Mary Ann Saplis, Dave LaDuke, Laura Droz, Back Row: Dottie Dav, Sue Rosinski, Elaine Nagano, Steve Roewer, Steve Ormond, Mike Mehney, Bill Young

Marilyn Eckhout, Pat Nedeau, and Carol Roberts watched as the network symbol, Debbie Stone, walked out after receiving the pink slip

Computer captivates as "Desk Set" bows

"The Desk Set" relates the story of a group of girls in the reference department of a major broadcasting network. Pat Ne-deau, in the role of Bunny Watson, portrays the department head, competent and sure of herself and her worth to the company. All goes well for the desk set until an efficiency expert is called in to investigate replacing Bunny and her staff with a computer called Emmarac. Department vs. computer makes for a lively battle, and wits and tempers clash as the reference crew prove that the human element in a job is indispensable

For the first time, the Junior class decided to open the auditions to the entire school, allowing wider scale participation in an otherwise selective activity. Special effects including the computer, with flashing lights, smoking detail tape, and wheezing electronic oral communication systems, were due by and large to the efforts of Mr. Gilles, working hand-in-hand with experienced director Mr. Hal Waller and the members of the stage crew that put in incredibly long hours to make the production a technical success, despite normal dramatic shortcomings

Marie Rochoza's grimace had nothing to do with her role in the play, but with her attempt to master the art of makeup for the theatre. Both she and Carol Roberts (sitting) appreciated the cleansing properties of soap and water after the evening's performance. Peg Costello (Terri McIntosh) seemed a little dubious about Bunny's "demure" choice of evening dress for her date with the president of the International Broadcasting Company

Meetings were held on a weekly basis.

Waiting their turn to read, Dan Vigliorolo and Connie Campbell showed different looks that typified their respective parts.

The quality of the work was excellent. The students showed a great deal of talent and hard work. The production was a success and the students were well prepared. The audience was very appreciative of the effort. The students were well behaved and the production was a success.

Explaining how the part was to be acted out Cal Draughn told Carol Schulz what she was doing wrong Stratford Theater in Canada once again was the place where the Franklin Players took the club's annual field trip

'Players' new ideas, student leadership

Under the leadership of concerned students, "Franklin Players" added new activities, revitalized old traditions, and introduced current theatre to Franklin. The club played host to Oakland University's Theatre Company production of As You Like It, whose western version of the Shakespearean comedy proved startling to the more conservative elements of the audience. Three quarter staging was also brought to the Franklin stage in the group's one-act play festival, featuring three student-directed productions, while funds to finance the plays were raised at Bob's Christmas Tree Corner, where Players sold reasonably-priced trees and in the meantime learned a few principles of economics

Webster's Collegiate Dictionary defines speech as "a communication or expression of thoughts or ideas in spoken words." For the serious speech student, Franklin provides ample opportunity to become an expert in both fields of speech, interpretive and analytical

With the expert advisory help in the persons of Mr Waller and Miss Pamela Mayer, Franklin is becoming a serious contender in all oral events, providing stiff competition for traditionally more experienced schools

After Forensics rehearsals, critical classes, hours of staring at a dark ceiling waiting for the day, the queasy feeling you get before you begin, and that all encompassing release when you've finished, the only thing left to do is wait, and two Franklin contestants, Don Murray and Carol Roberts did just that

One of the most rewarding events in the annual spring forensic competition is the serious interpretive reading category. Rehearsing for audiences of students, Pat Nedean received criticism and comments from the group and the director of Franklin's efforts in the contest, Mr. Hal Waller.

If a person is wrong, he's wrong and that's all there is to it. Though Margie Decker looked a little as if she might be interested in trying out for The Taming of the Shrew, she was merely good naturedly pointing out a fatal error in negative logic that could conceivably cost the team a victory. Andy Cooper, Margie's partner, was almost as enthusiastic.

Packet staff expands news and activities

Under the leadership of Miss Diane Johnroe, the new Packet advisor, the newspaper expanded to a six-page edition. This year's Packet people not only met deadlines but resolved many of the money problems which plagued last year's staff. Selling subscriptions and concessions, as well as co-sponsoring Homecoming and several sock-hops, helped the Packet to their out-of-the-hole account.

Not completely money-minded, the staff lent a hand in bringing the Christmas spirit to the Students Commons by decorating the area and having Santa on hand

Theme, copy, work makes for Almanack

Long hours, deep thinking, and hard work culminated in this year's Franklin Almanack yearbook theme, YES!

With the biggest advertising section ever, the use of two colors, and a bigger book, the 1970 Almanack once again exhibited the award-winning qualities of its predecessors and set the style for years to come

Prizes were awarded by Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner (Lin Sanford and Mark Lehto). Among the lucky winners were Sue Krogol and Charlie Brooks for the most original costumes; Kathy Furlong and Keith Goodwin, for best corsage; and Terry Prince and Larry Mahar, for their electrical dog "patches". Of course, almost everyone received some kind of prize — that is, everyone who visited Marryin' Sam and picked up a silver wedding ring!

Plum delightful was the favorite description of this year's Sadie Hawkins day shindig. The gals all hustled out, caught their fellers and dragged 'em to the hitchin' post quicker 'n you could pour moonshine from a jug. Toe tappin', knee slappin' music was provided by "The Label" bunch for the mountaineers.

Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner (Juniors Lin Sertord and Mark Lehto) survived the Dogpatch scene. Kathy Furlong and date, Keith Goodwin, jubilantly displayed a prize corsage

Sue Krogol and Charlie Brooks showed ingenuity by "barrelling" through with prize for the best costume of the night

1969 Aqualites splash to "American Beat"

"American Beat" was the theme for the 1969 Aqualite swim show. Under the supervision of new sponsor Miss Nancy Wares, the team wrote, directed and made costumes for the various sequences. American occupational activities were stressed, as the team "swam" to different aspects of the American working world. A pleasant addition to the all-girl team and the show were swimmers Dave Falkner, Keith Goodwin, Mike Burke, Mike Kotlarz and Sandy Graham, who added novelty, quality, and know-how to the show.

"Happy Hoboes" Mike Burke, Keith Goodwin, Kathy Ragan and Carol Foley played it cool and calm as they got ready to dive in the "King of the Road" sequence.

Timers' Club, GAA — girls choose athletics

Franklin girls who were interested in sports had a choice of joining two fine clubs — each offering a different aspect of athletics: GAA, for those interested in participation; and Timers' Club, for girls interested in the job of timing varsity swim meets

There were ninety active members in the Girls' Athletic Association, participating in volleyball, basketball, and track and field. GAA sponsored a Junior High Sports Day in the spring, as well as the Annual Mother-Daughter Banquet. They met weekly under the sponsorship of Miss Diane Corbett, whose hard work and coaching guided the Varsity volleyball team to second place in NWSAA league competition standing

At each home swim meet, members of Franklin's Timers Club, sponsored by Mr. Larry Teahan, took over the official duties of clocking each heat and recording times and diving competition scores. The girls also took over the unofficial duties of cheerleading, sometimes drowning out the boys' self-support with their dulcet tones of high-pitched encouragement

Laura McGowan illustrated the powerful form which helped earn her team second place in league volleyball competition

Jim Kosteva announced diving competition scores after they were tabulated by Diane Geiger and Diane Baljo

Under the shadow of the recall rope, timers watched the start of many a race. Sometimes, false starts necessitated the use of rope held by Timers on either side of the pool

Pep, Varsity Clubs boost athletic spirits

Pep and Varsity clubs represent athletic talents and enthusiasm. Although not formally organized, the Pep Club comprised hundreds of students who turned out for vociferous pre-game rallies and games.

For the first time in its history, the Varsity Club maintained its early-fall determination. Officers led letter-winning-athlete-members into a busy season of gate-guarding, bagel-selling (to raise money), painting and decorating with pictures a Varsity Clubroom.

Franklin's Pep Club (opposite page) showed its active support of the Patriots at the Homecoming game. Varsity Clubber Jim Craig (below) donned his best to paint the Patriot room.

Ski bunnies Debbie Swain, Rose Trask and Paula Winkler could not wait to show their ski fashions and equipment. Skiers fly downhill, try weekend upstate

One of the largest and most popular clubs in the school, the Ski Club, branched into the South Livonia American Youth Hostels Club. This enabled thirty-eight ambitious skiers to take part in the first weekend ski trip in four years. This trip was held the second weekend in February. The skiers enjoyed the hospitality of the Blue Lake Hostel and the great skiing at the Sylvan Knob and Skyline ski resorts.

"Have fun but ski in control," warned Ski Club sponsor, Mr. David Gillies (above) at one of the pre-season meetings. Senior skiers John Richardson, Don Gruber, Tom Kmet and Chuck Frenzel (lower left) patiently loaded skis on the bus for one of the Wednesday trips. Sophomores Mike Lanthier, Karen Kortsoja, and Gail Wasilewski merrily prepared for skiing.

All those skiers wanting to become eligible to participate in the ski trips were required to attend two of the three "dryland ski schools" held. These sessions were held to instruct the novice skier in the very basic concepts and to promote safety.

Ben's Corner, Co-op job-training insight

Participants in Franklin's Cooperative Occupational Training Program experience on-the-job training while still in school. These students earn school credit and money while working in this program

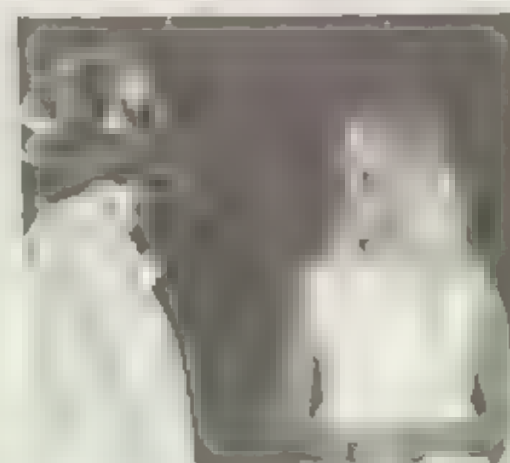

Ben's Corner, Franklin's own school store, is run by the retailing classes using students wanting to gain experience in retailing. The students involved gain this by ordering, displaying, and selling school supplies needed by students and faculty

Advertising is an important aspect of Retailing. Such ideas were impressed upon Gordon Hoeft and Jim Collins as they put up a display in Ben's Corner. Using good business procedure, Denise D'Arcy completed a sale to Debbie Miner Club members, area exchange students and their hosts attending the International tea (above) were entertained by Judy Carlson, Margaret Zedan, Janet Juengel. Patt MacLean won the "Big Ben" contest

Club activities promote international friendships

International club, as one of Franklin's largest clubs, is constantly active. The purpose of the club is to promote friendly relationships between visiting foreign students and members. During '69-'70 the club hosted five students, two from the Philippines and three from South America. The club also raises money to send Franklin students abroad for the summer

Winter Wonderland evening to remember

Ugly lockers were miraculously transformed into beautiful winter landscapes in keeping with the "Winter Wonderland" theme. Scenes of sleighs pulled by prancing horses gliding over the countryside, and a collage of various shades of blue and green snowflakes enhanced the area around the round library. Silver Christmas trees, twinkle lights and hanging silver snowflakes complete the "snowland fantasy". Sophomore class members served refreshments to those Juniors and their guests who attended this year's mid-winter prom.

Although in the past the Junior Prom has been a traditionally semi-formal dance, formals have become more popular in recent years. This year the majority of the girls wore floor-length gowns

Jana Smith offered her date Ray Rondy, a whiff of her luscious nosegay. Meanwhile outside Ann Mimnaugh had to lift her skirt in order to safely navigate snow-covered sidewalks. Laura Bockelman and Kim Parchukowski seemed in a world a one

Jeff Kohnman, Sam Fier, shed light on the subject and who could name them when the subject was "World Land Forum". Open for the Valley Show was Sam's White Band consisting of Denise Marsh, Judy Donner, Fred Corletto and Kathy Hater.

Music took on varied forms in the 1969 Variety Show with singing, dancing and comedy all paying a part. Kerry DeLong and Cory Frantz were one of the several singing acts in the show. Sue German danced to the overture from "Oklahoma".

Franklinites display diversified skills, acts

Talent scouts came to Franklin once again to see the stars of the all-new Variety Show. The program, sponsored and run by the Student Council, brought out the school's song and dance artists, talented musicians, jokesters and "drunks". The enthusiastic audience thoroughly enjoyed the diversified performances.

Congress reorganizes; consults community

Last spring, a Constitutional Convention was formed to evaluate the then-present Student Council. Through an extensive study, it was found that the school was not entirely represented by the 42 student representatives-at-large who made up the Council

A new constitution was drawn up by this convention and was passed by the school. The name was changed to Student Congress. The new Congress of 81 members created a greater representation along with an impressive desire to excel in each of its endeavors

The Congress has tackled numerous difficult tasks and has come out on top in each occasion

One of the many successful ideas developed by the Student Congress to promote better understanding between home, school and students were the Parent-Student-Faculty Seminars. Participating in one such seminar were Kathy Graham, Maureen Hopkins, Mr. John Ort, Joan Arcel (reporter for the Livonia News), Mr. John Stymelski (School Board member), Mr. David Amerman, Mr. Perry Graham and Mr. John Graves (left)

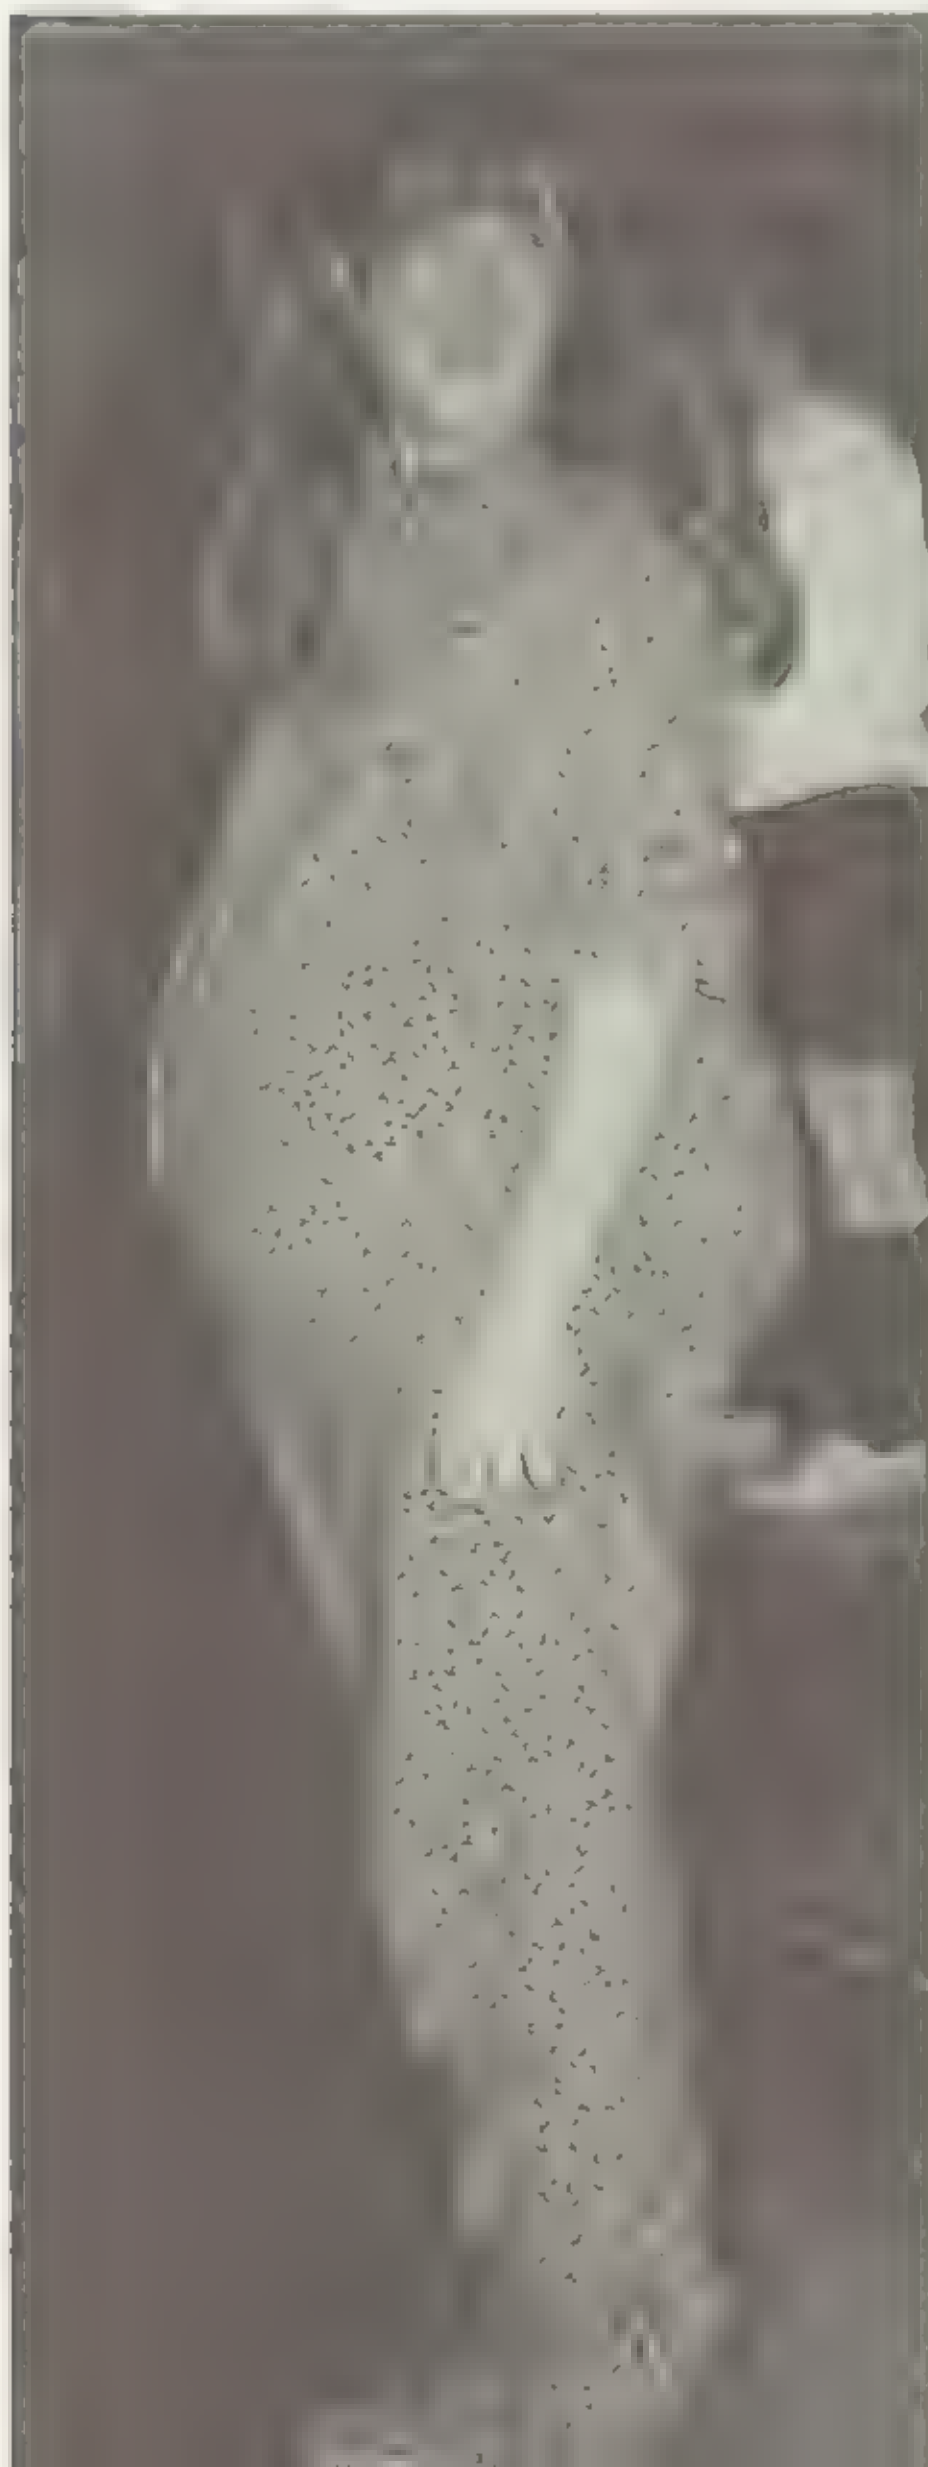

Talking over Student Government policies were Tim Keating, Mr. Helier, Mike Hall, Sue Krogol, Bruce Parkinson, and Jim Kosteva. During their free time Karen Kind, Sandy Cifor, Peggy Feys, Pat Tovey and Doug Mason enjoyed the Student Commons, an innovation of Student Congress

Senior challenge met, triumph—shouts ring

Senior-Faculty festivities opened with a volleyball game between the senior girls and the faculty women. The wildly attired girls routed the struggling faculty, two games to one. The volleyball match served as a prelude to the evening's highlight, the annual Senior-Faculty basketball game. Seniors, under the able hand of Coach Avagian, staged a brilliant game of "catch-up" to gain a frenzied victory. The faculty played well under the coaching of Mr. Scott, but they could not fight off the last-second rally by the determined boys. Final score was posted as 33-30, with the Seniors adding another victory to the annual classic. Proceeds from the game went to the Senior Class Council.

Bonnie Buckingham belted the ball up and over and teammates Jan Pehrson, Colleen Yakel, Margaret Zedan, Deb Frecka, and Diane DeSanto guarded the remains of the court. Dan Thorpe and Steve Mitchell, Mr. Youngs and Mr. Antonazzo waited patiently while Mike Swift and Mr. Ford battled for a rebound.

Foreign exchange students, Marcia McMurtrey, Carol Foley, Kathy Graham, Sue Krogol, and Sharon Koehn, spent their summer of '69 in Europe. Mr. Wesolowski congratulated Margie Decker for winning the speech award in the Debate category

Honorees congregate, acquire distinctions

Franklin students said "yes" to hard work and were rewarded with well-deserved honors. Honors were achieved in many different areas, and were acknowledged during the year and especially at Honors Convocation in May. Students were recognized for academic and athletic achievements, as well as citizenship, attendance, and various activities, Student Congress, Class Council, Music

Michigan Math Test Semi-finalists were Seniors Mike Swift, Bob Marzewski, Robin Spencer, Andy Cooper, Mickey Burbank, Sue Krogol, and Junior Jim Hanson. Pride etched the faces of Mike Hall, Andy Cooper, and Gary Allen, who were all nominated and recipients of the award for Boys' State

Winner of the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans essay contest was Don Yerks. A Franklin first, Don's prize was an all-expense-paid week in Washington. Secretary of the '71 Sophomore Class Council, Denise Slavin eagerly received her award from assistant principal Mr. Scott.

Sharlene Newton displayed one of the brighter moments in Bel Canto as she hit a merry chord. Tom Zedan held a long, low note in Male Chorale during breathing exercises. Paula Klenk (opposite) shaped and molded a subtle note. Judy Carlson's enthusiasm was next to none. Enjoyment seemed to be the key to vocal music.

Bel Canto choristers (below) gave their all at each rehearsal.

Vocal music blends; gentle harmony result

Vocal music finds breath exercises, sight reading and clapping note values part of regular curriculum to supplement actual singing. Excellent ratings in state and district competitions, plus three consistently entertaining yearly concerts, reflect dedication

Male Chorus, a new addition to the vocal music department, is a primary step to more advanced groups. Girls' vocal groups were instructed by Mrs. Duprey, with Mr. Ballard directing male vocal groups and choir.

Vocal or instrumental, strings vibrate beauty

Franklin's musical elite include a concert orchestra, directed by Mr. Lester Farkas; and two select groups from Bel Canto Choir: the Ensemble and Honors Quartette. All are heard in several public concerts.

Honors Quartette included Bill Elsey, Joan Malkiewicz, Cathy Mac, and Dan Vigharolo—all talented Franklin vocalists.

Determination, drills accomplish precision

Members of the Patriot Marching Band combined time and effort to create another successful year. Football fans were entertained at half time by the entire band in formation. A pep band aided the cheerleaders in their search for shouts of encouragement.

Band members spent hours after school and during class perfecting marching techniques and practicing the varied music used for their formations. The talent of Mr Ernst was evident when formations such as "Windmills of Your Mind" and the "Big F" were executed on the field. All in consideration, the band attempted and succeeded in providing enjoyable shows

Drums sounding and trumpets blowing, Dave Falkner on trumpet and John Kitzmiller on snare drum belted out the fight song. Majorettes and Drum Major were Ginny Ivankovich, Laura Di-Dominico, Fritz Hyde, Robin Spencer, Jeanette Jobin, Barb Davisson, and Pat Hyde, who added class and brightened up half-time programs

Near physical collapse, Senior Curt Steinhauer served as living proof that saying yes wasn't necessarily an easy undertaking. The same tenacious attitude possessed Juniors Larry Lee and Tom Carlson at Groves meet.

Tense precision tactics thrill football followers

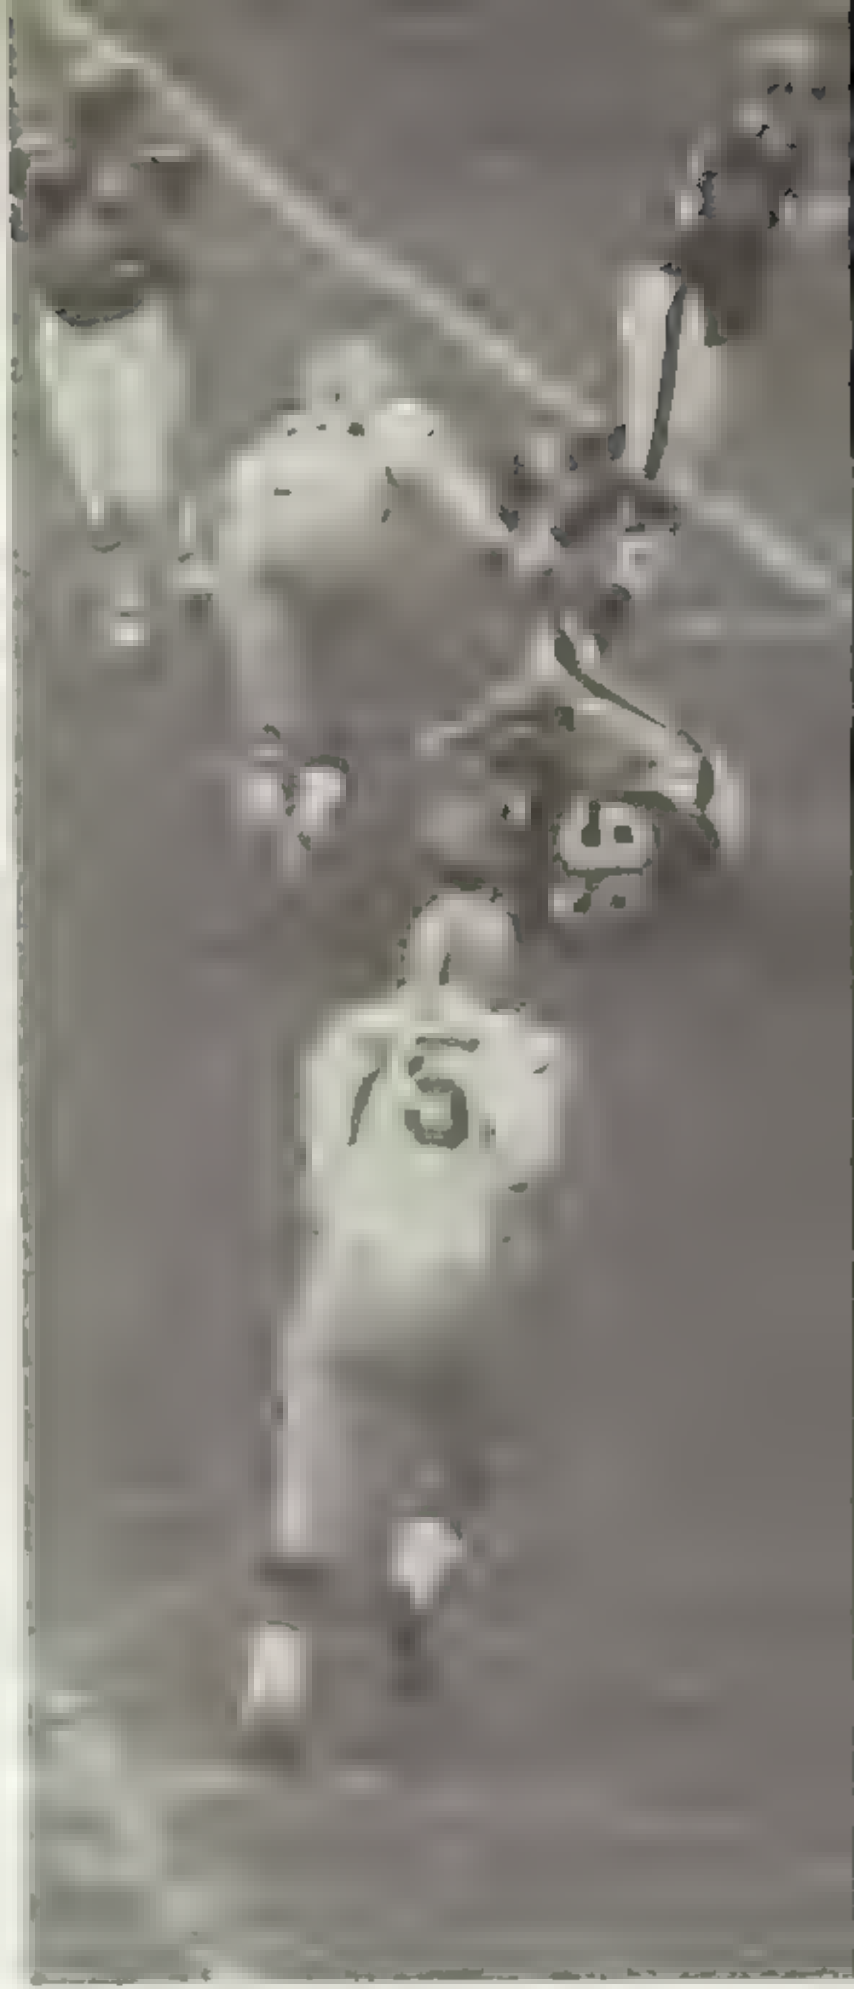

With the Patriots down 6-0 with three minutes to go against Redford Union, Mark Lehto ran off-tackle for a touchdown. Terry Maas's cool conversion added the margin for a 7-6 victory and wrote the script for the rest of the season. Maas's toe also provided a 27-26 victory over cross-town Bentley in the final game, during which Quarterback Frank Kasperek's magic arm completed 13 of 16 passes for 242 yards. Seven consecutive passes were completed in the final four minutes, two for touchdowns.

Second in league behind Thurston, the Patriots' 7-1 record also reflected strong defense. Thurston was held to 13 points. Two of North Farmington's scoring threats were stopped, one on fourth and one and another on the one-inch line!

All-League honors for offense went to tackle Dennis Lang, guard Jim Craig, fullback Dan Thorpe, and for defense to end Rob Hollandsworth and tackle Dan Smith. Jeff Kind, Mike Jinnett, Don Opland, and Jim Craig earned honorable mentions. One local newspaper named end Wayne Florida and Thorpe to its All-Area team; another paper selected Thorpe, halfback Jeff Kind, line-backer Jinnett and Hollandsworth for similar deserved honors.

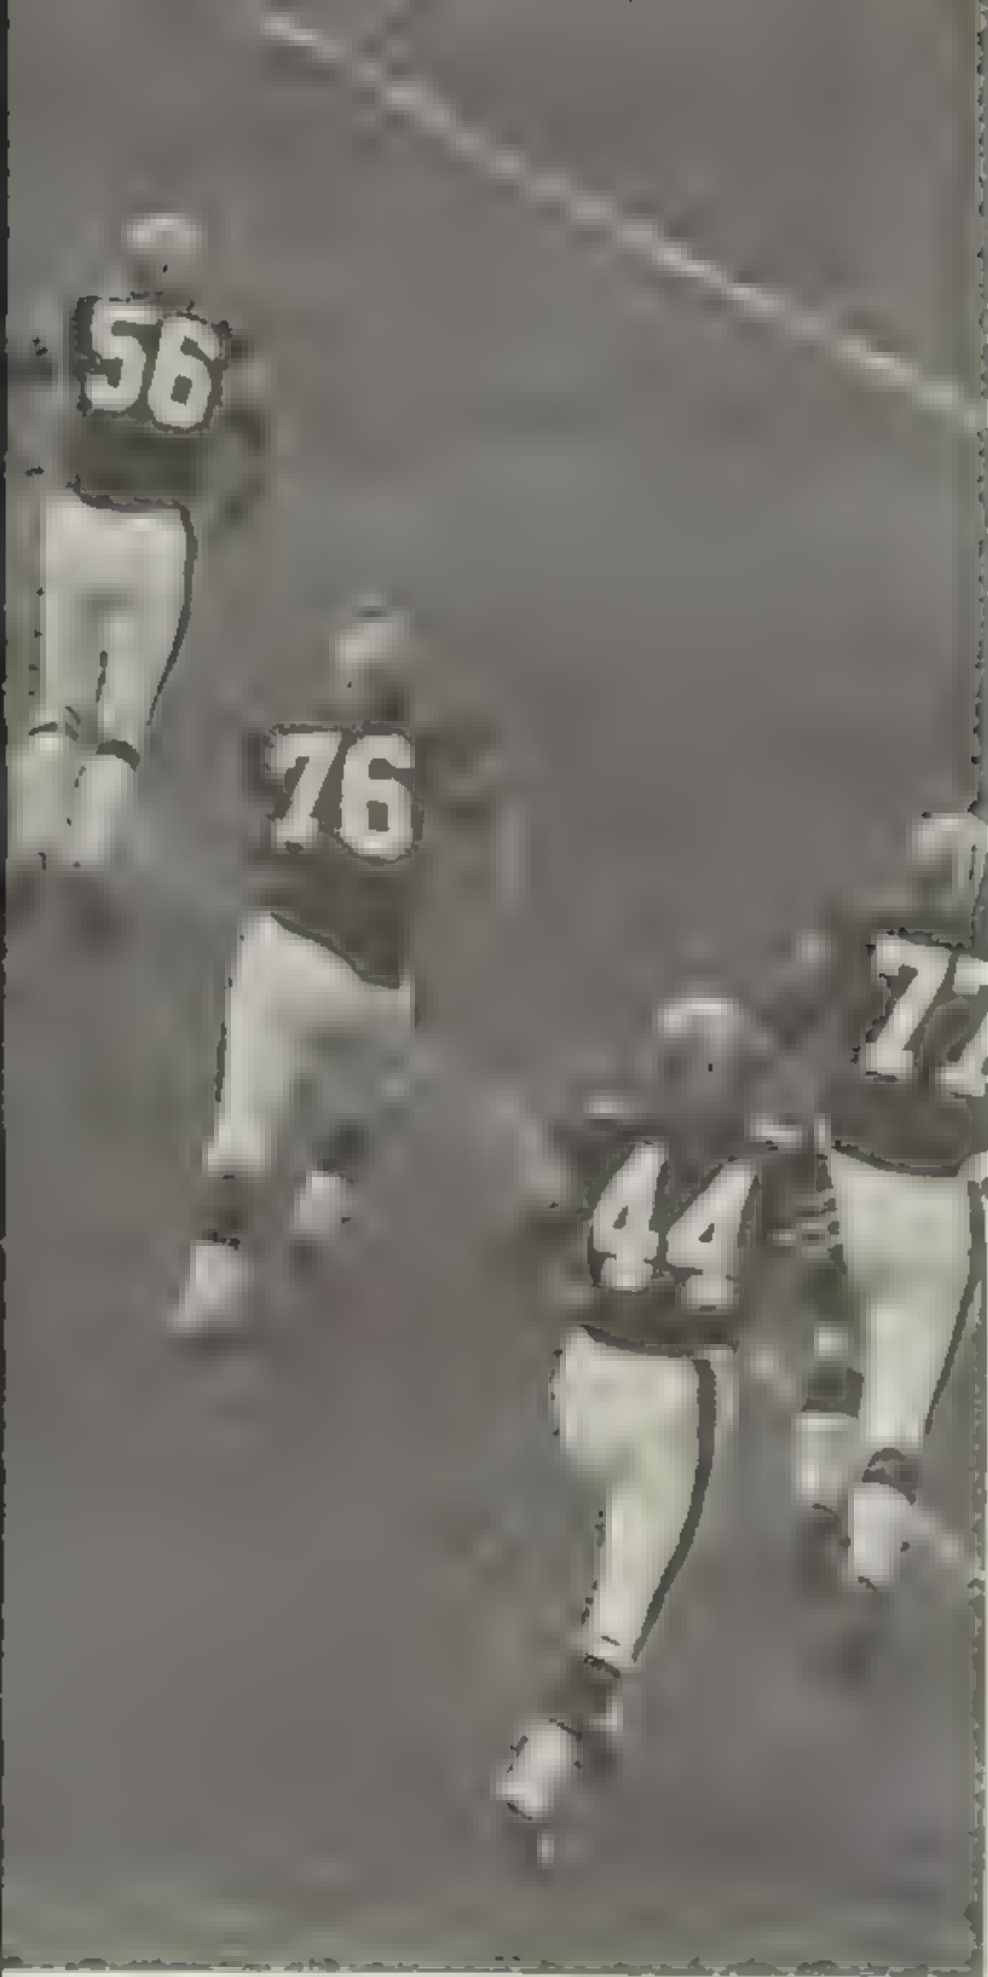

Junior Varsity, also 7-1, had its own thrills. As fresh subs against both Groves and Thurston, Butch Bajewski and Ken Acton teamed for identical forty-yard TD pass plays. Also against Groves, Crowe stole the ball and ran 50 yards to score. When Morrison's conversion attempt was blocked, the big tackle recovered the ball and legged it in for two points.

Referee's whistle signaled another Patriot TD as Mark Lehto, waiting with Wayne Florida, received the six-point pass in the end zone. Speedy land rovers flatten hills, rivals Unexpected success was the motivating force behind this year's Franklin Cross Country team. Being led by award-winning co-captain Jim Kosteva, Sophomore John Dawe and the other co-captain Bob Yuhasz, the harriers raced to an undefeated dual-meet season. The only disappointment was their loss in the League meet, which consequently meant the loss of championship and league title.

Coach Bob Holmes' team was supported by the largest reserve team in Franklin's history. Another first was the appearance of cheerleaders at all competitions.

Franklin's three top harriers — Jim Kosteva, Bob Yuhasz, and John Dawe — literally ran away from an opponent in one of Franklin's many victorious dual meets. Franklin did not lose.

Franklin's five flops into 'foul' season

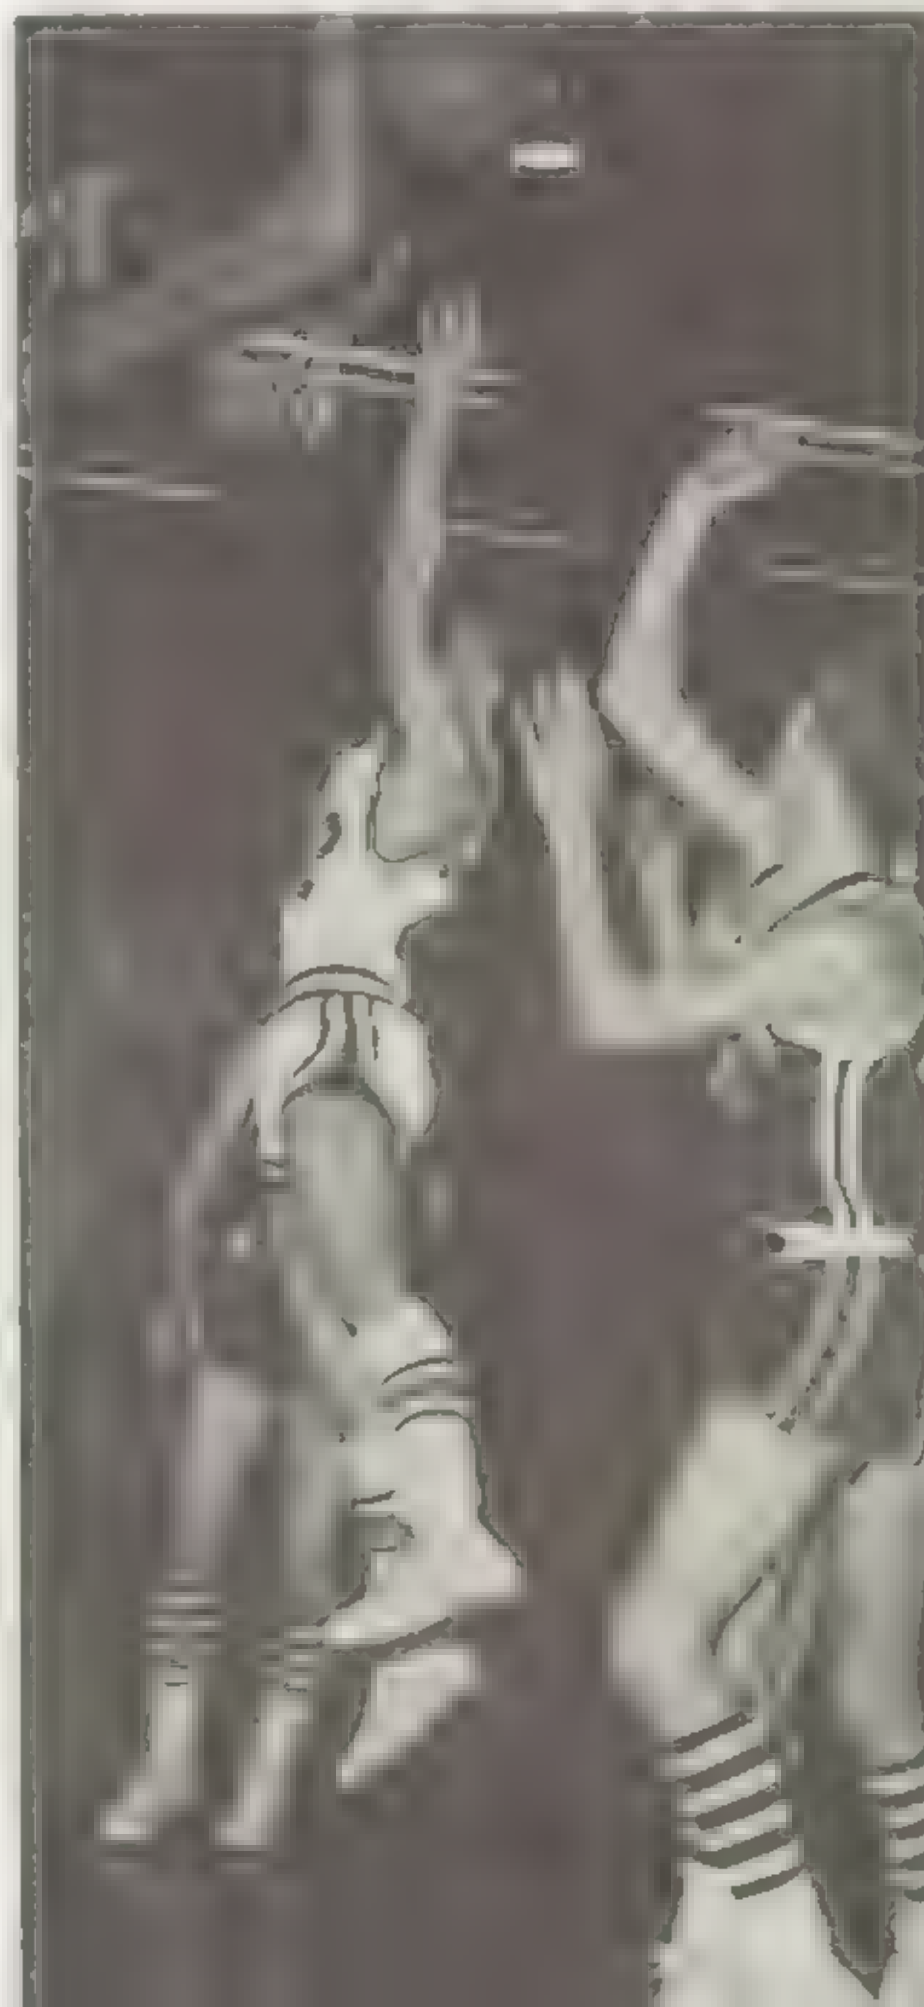

Tough luck ear-marked the '69-70 Varsity basketball season. The Patriots ended up on the short side of the score in 15 of their 18 contests. In their three victories Franklin's Five defeated two first-place teams and another lesser team, but in their losses the team fell victim to "poor calls" by referees, "untimely fouls", but mostly by scoring less than the other team. The team couldn't find the magic medicine to overcome the effects of that common court disease, Lilliputitis.

The Reserve team, on the other hand, did an about-face from the Varsity by winning a mythical Reserve championship. Team-work, precision shooting, and good ball handling added up to a 13 to 4 record, which was the best the Reserves have ever done.

Turning up court, Dick McAdam (below) checked to find an open man to pass to. Driving the baseline, Frank Kasparek (right) beat his "foe" and put his shot in for two points.

Swimmers rely on relays, dive to third place finish

Pooling their efforts, the 1969-70 Swim Team came up with an 8-7 season and placed third in the Northwest Suburban League. Despite the tremendous drive displayed by the tankers, their efforts were waterlogged in final competition and they were able to gain only four more victories during the season

Franklin wrestlers remained supreme in city competition after defeating Bentley and Stevenson in dual battles. The matmen made a slow start, losing three out of their first four matches. Going into the league meet, Franklin matmen were tied for first place with North Farmington and John Glenn. A disappointing end came as Franklin finished third in the Northwest Suburban League

Track squad's false start doesn't show in league

Disappointing was the word for the Patriots' 1969 Track season. After a fast start with two wins in their first three outings, they slumped and finished with a 2 win—5 loss-1 tie record for fifth place (of six) in the Northwest Suburban League

Standout performers for the Franklin cinderman were runners Senior Dave Collins and Junior Jim Kosteva. Their running skills helped them through regional competition into the Michigan meet Facial expressions of Juniors Curt Steinhauer and Mickey Burbank, and Sophomore Mark Lehto showed that they were tired, yet they never let up until they finished the race. What goes up must come down, Roger Geeting seemed to pray, hoping his jump would better those made by opponents.

Junior Jim Kosteva (left) again finished ahead of the field as timers Ron Pode, Armand Vigna, and George Lovich recorded

Apparently looking for a good landing spot, Junior Charlie Brooks (below) easily cleared the bar during the pole vault competition

Their season record was 2-5-1.

Franklin's number one hurdler, Jeff Kind, overcame many "hurdles" on the way to another of his numerous victories. Coach Bob Holmes was obviously pleased as he congratulated Jeff while giving him his time

During pre-game warm-up, '69 senior pitcher Gary Miner shared with outfielder Frank Kasperek some tips on opposing batters.

Fair or foul decisions were made by the umpire without help from North Farmington's coach or Coach Ron Heller (above). Gary Allen (below) tagged out a light-footed thief.

New inning line-up for Patriot swatters

Franklin's 1969 baseball team almost struck out. Not only was the weather bad, but there was little else to make the diamond glitter. With a 5 win—11 loss record over the season, enthusiastic Patriot baseball followers began to wonder about and hope for new innings.

With six of the starting nine returning to hearten new '70 talent, Coach Ron Heller expects at least a reversal of last year's results, hopefully all wins.

Golfers drive fair way as Tennis nets love

Franklin's golfers teed off into another great season in 1969. With a 13 win—4 loss record along with a second-place finish in the league, the Patriot "duffers" really showed the opposition what the game is all about.

On the other hand, the tennis team found out that their game isn't always a game of "love". Coach Ron Stiver was caught in a volley of defeats as his racket squad managed only two victories in their twelve matches.

Pleased with his shot, Randy Adams marked the flight of his ball down the fairway. Getting into the swing of things, Iain MacDonald (below) countered his opponent's volley with a drive.

RESERVE CHEERLEADERS. Suzie Overman, Lynn Hendricks, Barb Leslie, Sue Taormina, Mary Roberts, and Heather Stewner

Franklin's spirit was not only heard, but seen at every turn of the halls to remind Patriots of the Friday pep assemblies in the lecture theatre. Varsity captain Cathy Roth (left) was always on hand (or was it fist?) to lead class competition and other organized noise during the assemblies. Barb Leslie and Linda Hendricks (below) eyed game developments

"Ooh good gosh" our spirit was gr-reat!

The spirit of 1969-70 was kindled by the enthusiastic yells of Franklin's cheerleaders who, though small in number, loudly supported our various teams during all kinds of distress, tests, and success

In the summer of 1969 cheerleaders began practicing twice a week to get ready for football season. The varsity squad headed for Camp All-American to learn new yells and skills. Competing with 250 other Midwest cheerleaders, they won three trophies, including first place in teen-group competition. Individual honors were awarded to Kathy Ragan and Diane DeSanto

Cheerleaders served as inspiration to one and all, guiding loyal Patriot fans through all seasons

Girls' tennis swings singles, doubles, sets

For the second season in a row, Franklin's girls' tennis team swung into Fall. Playing all the teams in the Northwest Suburban League, the ten girls tried hard to increase their standing under the capable supervision of Miss Nancy Wares. Though the scores were not fantastic, with a 0-4 and one-tie season, the girls expect to make a superior showing in the coming season, as most of the team will return.

Displaying calmness and decisiveness, ace Karen Blackney (right) returned a lob volley from her opposition. Maureen "Moe" Hopkins (lower right) gracefully stretched to return a serve

Determination depicted the expression on Kathy Blackney's face (above) as she volleyed, Barb Mead observed

JoAnne Madigan and Ann Billing stretched hard for that extra inch that might mean victory in their freestyle competition

Swimming stimulates girls' spirit; victories

For the third year in a row, the girls swim team competed successfully in the masculine territory with their male counterparts. Despite the maintenance strike, when the pool could not be used for practice or meets, the girls swam victoriously, for the most part, in league and non-league meets, under the expert supervision of sponsor Mrs. Good. They finished the season with a record of three wins and two losses.

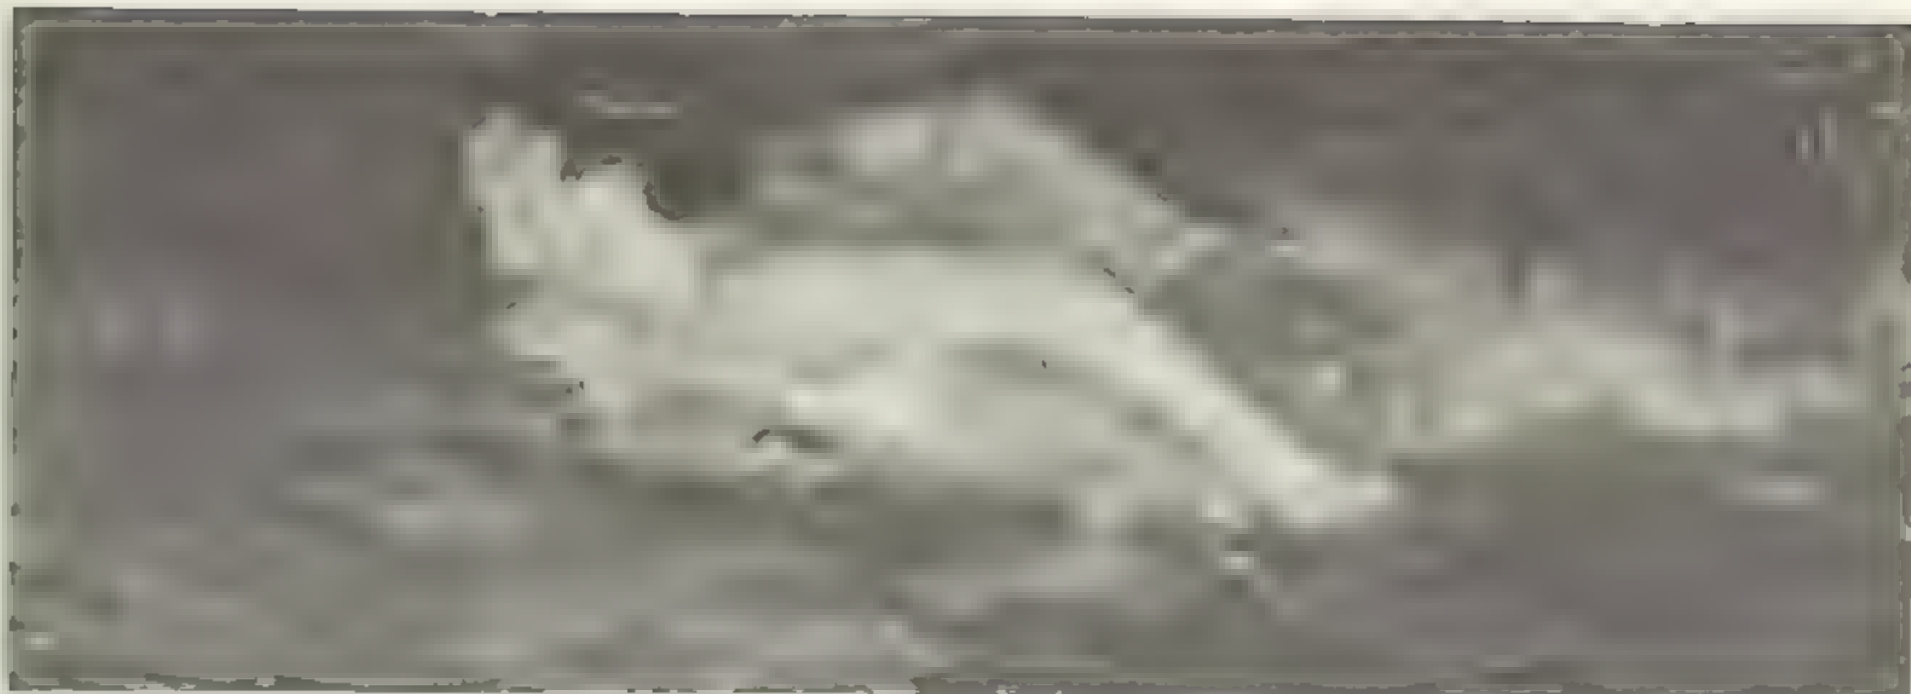

Waiting to get the quick start they needed, Laura McGowan and Ann Billing tensed themselves for the gun that started the race

Well, boys, I think it's about time to use some strategy," said Mr. Ford. Bruce Geier (below), Franklin's star wrestler, displayed winning form against North Farmington

Athletic activities develop student body

Proof of the positive results produced by their positive efforts for three years sustained each Senior at outdoor Commencement. It was a great, final alone-together yes.

'Seventy Seniors test diverse skills

Sophomores of 'seventy' brought with them many diversified talents. Putting on original plays, coming up with creative ideas for a float, just plain learning, united them.

Nor did their talents go to waste when they were Juniors. Having mastered the tricks of the academic trade, they juggled time to permit activities in and out of school!

As Seniors, finally near the end of their public school education, they began to think of "what after?" — college, service, work, marriage. For the class as a whole, the three FHS years had built skills, memories.

Going over last-minute instructions from play director Pat Nelson, actors in the original drama, "A Knight to Remember" readied themselves for on-stage.

Class of '70 athletes help Franklin teams

Honors in sports started being gathered by our many talented athletes in the fall of '67. Starting with a league championship in Cross Country, in our Sophomore year, the '70ers proved themselves on the many fields of combat, ending with brilliant performances as Seniors. Even the non-stars helped not only by giving depth to their teams but also adding the spirit that was so necessary for the all-important teamwork.

Not only on the sports front were there awards for the athlete. Physical Education class awards went to Sophomores Forrest Ault and Kathy Ragan; Seniors on the cheerleading squads were Cathy Roth, Kathy Ragan, Diane DeSanto, and Joanne Dommer.

First letter winner for the class of '70 was Kurt Miller (who has moved to Battle Creek). Kurt won his letter in Cross Country. Many other Seniors followed by winning theirs.

Four-time activity awardee Linda Eagle '68 gave pointers to our first activity receivers: Pat Neenan, Cindy Mar, and Dan Vignato.

Seniors initiate activities early

Entering high school meant an increase in academics as well as activities. The class of '70 took this challenge. Sophomore membership in clubs was high. Participation in other events kept the year busy. That spring, three Sophs received their activity pins.

Upper-class years brought more involvement. As Juniors, the class sponsored an all-school play, "Desk Set"; several members held club offices. Twelve received their activity awards. As Seniors, these students became school leaders, holding many class offices. School activities were aided by participation of experienced Seniors, who met the challenges presented to them.

Seniors raised floats, spurred Homecomings

Our Junior year Homecoming brought with it many bright surprises. "Shock It To 'Em" was the theme of our float and shock 'em is what we did, taking first in float competition. Pleased with our varsity's effort, a victory over Oak Park, underclassmen joined in the celebration, attending the Homecoming dance "Reflections of Autumn". As is the custom, our class nominated and elected two Homecoming princesses. Honored by this custom were Diane DeSanto and Marcie Grameno

Traditionally Homecoming has been a time of returning alumni. Our three years were no exception as alumni flocked home. Homecomings throughout our history at Franklin have always been a big success, sponsored by Student Council in our first two years, the 1969 event was taken over by Cheerleading squads

Homecoming in our junior year welcomed Diane DeSanto and Marcia Grameno as the Class of '70's royalty representatives

'70 Juniors dawdled in Dogpatched denims

Our Junior year came to an early peak of fun and frenzy during the class-sponsored Sadie Hawkins Dance in November. Marryin' Sams Wayne Florida, Jim Kosteva and Dave Falkner tied the wedding knots with rhinestone rings, while Jeff Kind reigned as Lil' Abner with two Daisy Maes, Gayle Greenwald and Fritzzi Hyde. Jim Kosteva and Carol Foley took the honors of the year's best costume winners. Our Junior Class played host not only to the entire Franklin student body, but also to Churchill Sophomores, who shared Franklin's facilities

Imitating their namesakes, Daisy Mae (Gayle Greenwald) and her "catch" Lil' Abner (Jeff Kind) grabbed top honors at the annual Sidie Hawkins Dance in their Junior year

By Junior year, '70'ers Cindy Quinn and Sharon Koehn were adjusted to modular scheduling's new, different "study" techniques

Successful adaptation builds studies, friends

Adjustment to Franklin included adaptation to modular scheduling and its varied study procedures and centers. Sophomores of the class of '70 suffered several innovations, such as the green and yellow passes, allowing choice or restriction of study areas, respectively. Several centers were available for use.

Situations changed during Junior year. Study areas were shuffled around, passes became non-existent, and green passing-time lights were installed.

Senior year brought another change. Hall monitors were on duty throughout the halls to remind students that during modules they were not to be in the halls. Despite these varying conditions, '70 grads managed to study and to form lasting friendships.

Prom highlights Seniors' 2nd year

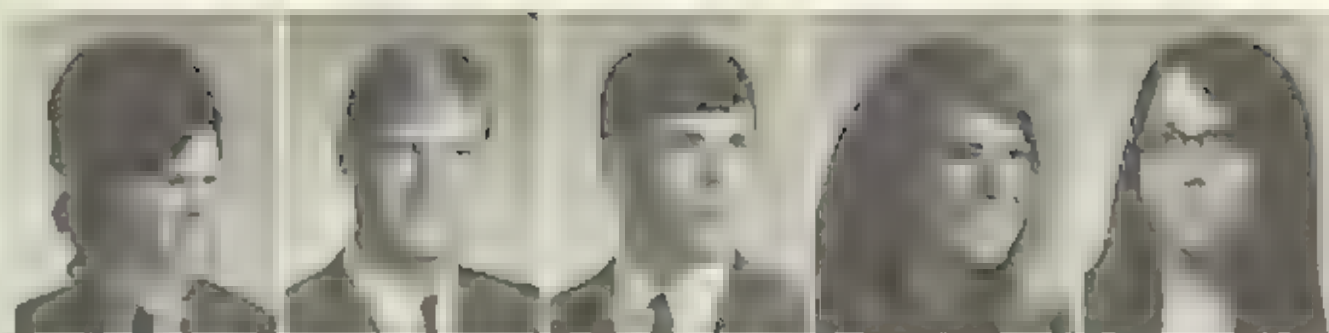

As the highlight of the class of 70's Junior year the Junior Prom was IT. Starting early in the Fall of '68, the 70ers started planning for the big day. Decorations, refreshments, and entertainment were the main things to get done. The little things for those attending were getting clothes, reservations for dinner

Decorating for the Prom started two days before. Many of the class members gave up their free time to help do the work

The night of the Prom, the south cafeteria was transformed into an oriental setting, which fit the theme, Shangri-la

Gregory Huegel, Fritz Hyde, Andrew Hyland, and Chris Cova delighted in Junior Prom decorations

Seniors' involvements add up to honors

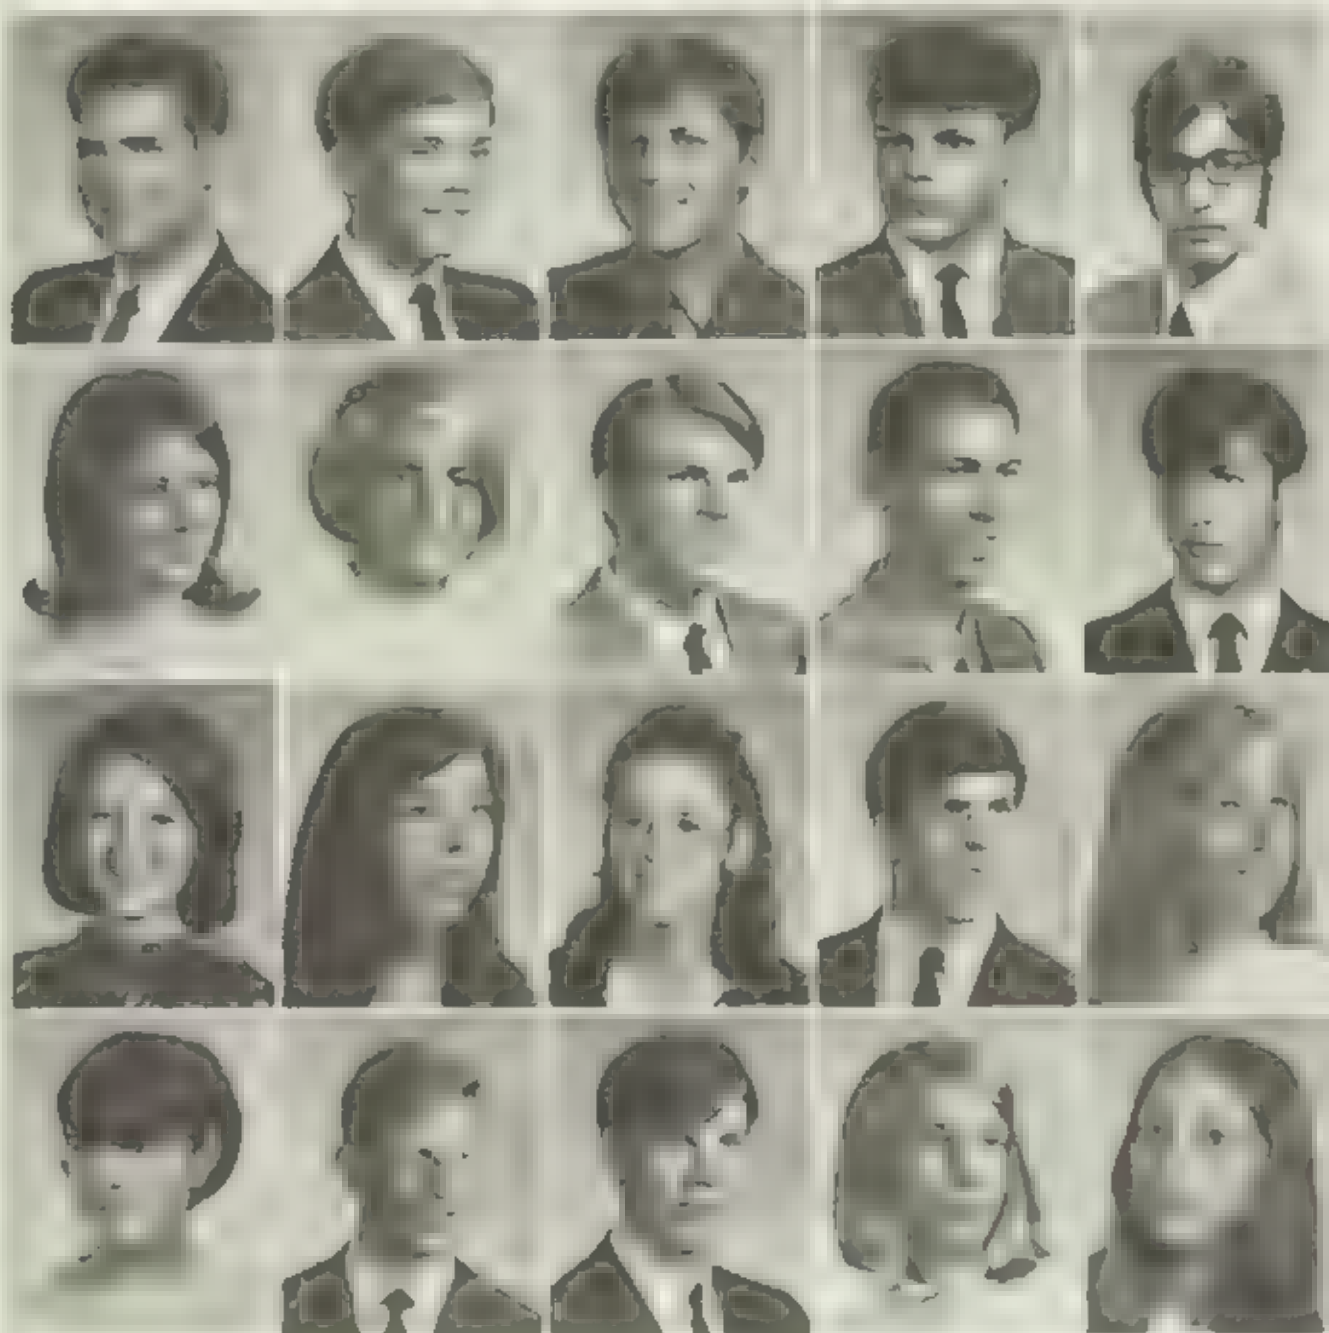

Next was our year of involvement. Class participation began by putting a finger in every pot. As a result, twelve Juniors were awarded their first All-School Activity Pin. Three more earned a second Presiding over the Junior Class were President Kathy Graham, Vice-President Gary Allan, Secretary Carol Foley, and re-elected Treasurer April Burns.

State and overseas' representatives Carol Foley, Kathy Graham, Susan Krogol, and Marcia McMurtrey spent the summer abroad, while Gary Allan, Andy Cooper, Mike Hall, Jim Kosteva, Bill Kumbier, Dick McAdam, and Gary Medland attended Wolverine Boys' State. Selected for Girls' State was Sharon Koehn.

Congratulations were in line as Kathy Graham, only Junior of her class to receive honors for her performance at the Instrumental State Solo and Ensemble Contest, accepted a memento for her talent from Mr. Graves at May's annual Honors Convocation

In recognition of her prominence in numerous school activities, Junior Susan Krogol was presented the Ed Faucher Award for Outstanding Student Leadership

Seniors respond to innovations, service

Innovations in classroom studies and related fields brought about more involvement for each member of the class of '70. A course in Commercial Cooking opened for boys in the fall of 1968; during the 1969-70 school year the class opened a restaurant, "Poor Richard's", in the McKinley annex, where teachers could buy a tasty lunch inexpensively. Girls were also welcomed to the class during its second year

Probably the best use of free time was in the Community Service program, which allowed students to use their free time to help organizations in the area. Seniors did their part, working at elementary schools, hospitals, and with service groups. All students who participated in this program successfully were awarded one-half credit.

Maybe from "Laugh-in"? The boy on the tricycle was watched over by Senior Connie Campbell, who helped supervise faculty children during a Play-School session, part of Child Care class

In order to gain a better insight into college selection, Mike Hall talked with Lake Superior State representative.

Plan, prepare, play — Seniors finish school

Senior year for the class of '70, as for all Seniors, was the long-looked-for finale to their high school years. Graduation, the ultimate goal, approached.

The planning and forming of goals and ambitions were completed during this year. Preparation for these goals had begun when incoming Sophomores identified their curriculum. Junior year, many students took tests to prepare for college entrance. During their Senior year, they took more exams and sent in college applications. Teachers, counselors, friends, and family helped each Senior choose directions toward his ambitions.

Yet despite the serious decisions being made, the Senior class of 1970 was full of fun. Spirits were high and class energy never ceased to exist. Before settling down to the responsibilities of active citizens, most Seniors enjoyed their final school year.

Seniors measure technology, humanity; happily graduate to adult challenges

Yes.

*We're here too.
And we don't intend to be ignored or forgotten.*

*We'll study and play.
We'll watch and listen.*

*But we'll express our opinions, too.
We'll ask why at awkward times
and demand answers
to accept or reject
casually or with care.
We're willing and able to do some original thinking.*

*Count us in
on the world's progress.
It's our world, too.

Sophomores, Juniors blend into underclass

Sophomore Pat Daberkoe proved that appearances are deceiving. The monocle was part of the wood-shop machinery, not props for a commercial

Franklin's own Pep Band, led by Sophomore Dale Marzewski, provided pre-game and half-time entertainment for basketball games and track and wrestling meets, and really put "pep" into after-school rallies

Lora DiDomenico, the only Junior on the Majorettes squad, displayed her twirling prowess for cheering Patriot football fans

All work, no play?

Juniors won't be dull

Despite hard work, Mr. Waskin's eleventh grade accelerated English classes sometimes didn't seem like classes — especially after the addition of their own little "art gallery."

Whopping big boothful of Franklin kids got together at their favorite restaurant-social clubs after almost anything, a busy school day, a big game, a weekend movie

The Home Sales Tour

The home sales tour in our 60 passenger bus is an extra you get with Harrison-Moore. This tour enables every member of the sales staff to physically inspect every property that we have for sale with our office. After actually touring each property, the sales force is much more able to discuss your property intelligently and authoritatively. This enables every Harrison-Moore salesperson to select a home fully suited to the buyer's individual needs.

When the salesmen are not using the bus on the tour, it is frequently used by scout groups, church groups and others for outings, picnics, ball games, etc. Harrison-Moore gladly offers the use of the bus to many groups as a public service.

YES!!

It's a proper theme
and a timely one.
Youth is on the move
toward a cleaner world with more freedom, more opportunity for all.

What better symbol for our brave new world of ideas and ideals
than the American flag?
Let Old Glory wave high for New Glory
as the voice of truth and reason is heard in the land
Yes

Our personal Almanack affirmative
waves as a thank-you:
to Franklin students who incorporated ad sales
into their summer fun
who joined Mrs. Dutton in pressure-typing index to Mr. Alexander, Mrs. Becker, Mr. Probelski, Mr. Sauls, for quick photo assistance;
to Mr. Carey and Mr. Kissel, for counting money; to Mr. Bourgon, ditto, and for so much more — for being effervescent Mr. Cheer all year.
(He was fab!) (We've finally come clean about it!) to our other patient neighbor, Mr. Vigna, who may rightly blame any newly-noticed symptoms of deafness and/or insanity
on the proximity of his office to Alma Nack's;
to Mrs. Mulkiten, for her oatmeal cookies,
to Mack, Lorraine, Russ — all our Modern aides;
to Jackie, Al, Sammy — the whole Powell crew

Yes!

O Zina:
very dear friend who will always be close to my heart. The very best of luck and health
to you always.
God Bless You
your Beauregard

To the sweetest, nicest, most accurate, source & friend of absolute poetry & friend of information & depth, minutes that I have ever had the pleasure of having a desk
next to. (When I had a chance to use it) Rhetoric teachers are always brief & to the point.

Seriously in yearbooks & their writing in last time I even will be the last time I even do this, even for you. If you hadn't given me copies of dishes I gave the whole first semester of 10th grade year I would have ignored the whole thing.
Mary P.

Zina,
It's been a great pleasure to team with you this year. My egg is deflated though because you out poetry - quoted me. You've been more than a "dear", you've been a delight. Hope your wish for a little "Kang" comes true soon.
Phil

Yes!
After modular scheduling,
English 10, and department meetings
we're still sticking - and laughing.
Next year - it will be good to have you back on a regular basis. Then we can laugh (or cry?) through the lab.
Bon
